

Description of Project

- Two-week program to Germany, Belgium, and London in early May
- Enriched our psychology knowledge by touring museums, churches, and other important sites
- Some of these popular destinations included Sigmund Freud's house, Buckingham Palace, Mental Health Hospitals/Institutes and more
- Wrote a blog post each night reflecting on what we learned and how we tied psychology into the places we visited
- Free days in Germany and London in order to tour the areas on our own
- Counts as Psychology 5797 course credit

Psychology and Culture in Europe

Why I Selected This Study Abroad Program

- I always knew that I wanted to study abroad in college but did not know if I would be able to as a biology major
- I wanted to further my understand of psychology since I just declared it as my minor
- Since it was only a two week program, it was a great way to get an idea of what studying abroad is like
- These were three countries that I had never been to before but always had an interest in visiting
- There were only about 20 of us on the trip so it allowed us to get really close

What Made This Program Transformational

- I learned a lot about psychology and how to connect it to everyday places like museums, memorials, and more
- It gave me the confidence of knowing that I can successfully travel internationally on my own
- I made a lot of great friends that I was able to share this experience with
- I gained a new appreciation for museums and monuments that I did not have prior to this experience

How To Learn More About This Program and Other Study Abroad Programs

- Visit <https://educationabroad.osu.edu> to check out what programs are being offered
- Visit my blog to see what this experience looked like each day at <https://artandartistsinfluenceduringtheeuropeanexperience.wordpress.com>

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

STEP

Second-year Transformational Experience Program